What's Worse than a Persistent Water Drip?

How About Hearing that Same Persistent Sound, But Not Knowing Where It's Coming From!

Dripping water is a sound that could drive you up the proverbial wall, especially if you can't pinpoint the source. Well, that's often the case with a hidden water leak.

Has that ever happened to you? If so, you've no doubt checked the toilet, shower head, and maybe even the baseboards and ceiling for signs of a leak. And even though you're sure you've checked everywhere, you still hear it. Where on earth could that drip, trickling, or gurgling be coming from?

Very often it's coming from inside a sink or tub drain trap. These drains are fitted with P- or J-traps (so named based on their shape), specifically designed to ensure proper drainage and prevent sewer gases from entering your home. When working normally, water runs down the drain and into one side of the trap. When that side is full, it overflows into the main drain pipe. After the water has finished draining, the water level balances out evenly on both sides of the trap.

When a drain clogs up, an imbalance of water occurs inside the trap. That, in turn, leads to that persistent and infernal trickling, dripping, or gurgling sound that you want gone...now!

Green & Healthy Living Tips

Energize for Less. When you're tired and need a lift, pass on the coffee or those expensive caffeinated multi-hour energy shots and have a club soda with lime. The carbonation and aroma will energize you.

Well, the next time (though hopefully there won't be one) that happens, try clearing the affected drain line as you normally would, i.e., with a plunger, liquid drain cleaner, a homemade drain cleaning solution of baking soda and vinegar, and so on. If that doesn't work, then it's time to contact Your 1 Plumber.

For starters, we can quickly and accurately locate a leaking pipe or drain anywhere inside or outside your home. That eliminates the guesswork and allows us to recommend exactly the right solution to clear up the problem...and get rid of the noise.
