3 Great Reasons to Replace Your Water Heater Now.

Now is a great time to replace your water heater, especially if yours is getting up there in years.

Why? Because under a federal program called NAECA (National Appliance Energy Conservation Act), conventional electric and gas storage tank water heaters – as you now know them – will no longer be manufactured. They can be replaced by higher-efficiency models that take up more space and cost about 35% more than conventional style storage tank water heaters.

And that's precisely what gives you 3 great reasons to replace your water heater now:

- 1. Here at Your 1 Plumber, we still have an ample supply of conventional electric and gas storage tank models. Purchase one now while supplies last, and you can save yourself a bundle of money vs. the cost of higher-efficiency replacement systems.
- 2. In addition, we're now offering a $50 savings of our own with the coupon on page 3.
- 3. Buy now, and you can purchase a water heater with at least the same size storage tank you have now. Remember: the new, higher-efficiency models are larger than conventional water heaters. So if you wait too long, you may be forced to purchase a replacement system with less water storage capacity.

This is a true limited-time opportunity to save money – and get the water heater you want.

Green & Healthy Living Tips

An easy way to reduce carbon emissions. Wrapping a water heater with insulation can keep as many as 1,000 pounds of global-warming CO2 a year out of the upper atmosphere.

More About the New NAECA Water Heater Regulations

The following pertains to water heaters manufactured on or after 4/16/15.

Water Heaters Under 55 Gallons

- The height of a new unit with the same gallon capacity as an existing unit may be 2" or more taller
- The diameter of a new unit with the same gallon capacity as an existing unit may be 2" or more wider.

Water Heaters Over 55 Gallons

- These will undergo the biggest changes as new models may require more space or potentially switching models.
- All residential electric storage tank water heaters must be hybrid electric heat pump models.
- All residential gas storage tank water heaters must be gas condensing models.
